To whom it may concern

As a not-for-profit organisation, RSPCA WA relies on donations, annual fundraising events and importantly bequests, to fund much of its work in animal welfare in Western Australia.

Being a member of Charity Wills means that we are part of an extremely professional organisation, where there is a strong commitment to promoting the importance of charity bequests to the general public.

Our funds are limited, and we believe any extra assistance in bringing the concept of charity bequests to a wider audience will help us enormously. Charity Wills also has the legal expertise to advise clients and charitable bodies in the legal specifics of will making.

With many worthwhile charities to choose from these days, the decision to become a member of Charity Wills was not a matter of whether we could afford to, it was a matter of whether we could afford not to.
